

To whom it may concern:

At its core rugby is a game about camaraderie, hard work and friendship. I was lucky to find the game during my time at Indiana University. I still attend the alumni weekends and support the team that gave me so many lifelong connections.

Recently, I learned about SOK Global's vision to revitalize Kuntz Stadium through a couple of my fellow IU Rugby Alums, Brian Williams and Bryce Campbell. SOK Global's vision is powerful because it is not only about rugby. It is about improving a community asset for neighborhood youth sport, adult and recreational sport, and many other community activities.

Indianapolis is a city with a deep rooted rugby community and a diverse sports business landscape which rugby will only compliment. It has the power to bring international awareness and new business opportunities to the city and state. Given the number of national sports governing bodies in Indianapolis and the excitement that this facility will bring, USA Rugby would greatly benefit from relocating to Indianapolis as well.

I am committed to helping this project come to life, to encouraging the national governing body, USA Rugby, to relocate to Indianapolis and to helping Indianapolis participate as a host city in the 2031 and 2033 Rugby World Cups.
